

This CD has the pdf files that are the chapters of the book that I wrote for my sabbatical project. The first three chapters are pretty much done, and have been proof read by my hyper-critical editor friend. The next few need proof reading, so please forgive a few minor mistakes. Two of the chapters (#'s 9 & 10) are recently finished and may need some revision.

The book is intended to be intro to geology centered on the idea of mountain building – but I have two other important missions:

1. To turn students on.
2. To say a few important things about science (hence the chapter about disagreements in terminology).

This is meant to be about science, hence the photographs are critical, but I hope that you enjoy the illustrations too.
